

Train the Trainer

The DofE's Train the Trainer programme has been developed to provide potential trainers with an opportunity to explore training delivery methods, style and content and to help ensure high quality training is provided to everyone.

This course is for those people who may already be delivering DofE training on behalf of their OA who have received no formal training, those with a general interest in the subject or those who want to gain some more skills and knowledge in a training environment.

What will you cover during the course?

- The learning cycle
- The difference between learning and training
- Learning style theories
- How to create a positive learning environment
- The development of a framework for planning and delivering a training session
- The exploration of different delivery skills
- To understand the DofE's Modular Training Framework
- The importance of evaluation in a training programme.

"I enjoyed the building a learning programme session and will use this in the future."

David Alex, London
